It is here, in the narrow valley of an ordinary small river that you may see a concentration of wonderful landscapes, stunning waterfall and amazing rock formations. The alpine park covers an area of 200 km² (20,000 hectares) and stretches for over 35 km (22 miles) of the western Tien Shan (Celestial Mountain) range.

The national park's altitude ranges from about 1,500 meters (5,000 feet) at the entrance to a maximum of 4,895 meters (16,000 feet) at Semenov Tian-Shan, the highest peak in the Kyrgyz Ala-Too range. Located on the north slope of central part of the Kyrgyz Tien Shan ridge, the park has become in many ways the symbol of Ala-Too itself.
